Faculty Senate changes law fee recommendation

The Faculty Senate committee investigating the special law school fee has decided not to recommend that special funds be used only for the law library, the committee chairman said yesterday.

Earlier this fall, the committee told the Faculty Senate the use of the special law school fund should be restricted to law library use, Gerry Brenner, chairman of the committee and associate professor of English, said.

Brenner said the ad hoc committee decided to drop their original proposal because the committee members did not understand the mechanics of budget preparation when the proposal was drawn up.

The members "assumed there was some sort of classification" of uses of appropriated money, he said. Now, however, the members realize the proposal is unrealistic because budgets are appropriated to departments and schools in lump sums, he said, and specific uses are not indicated.

The recommendation had been originally made, Brenner said, because the committee members believed that only the law school library was "unique."

Sullivan said last spring the law school was "the only completely professional graduate-study unit in the Montana University System." The special fee was needed, he said, because the school was faced with "costs which are unique on the university campus."

Sullivan said the funds from the fee would be used to supplement salaries, buy library books and purchase "needed materials and supplies for the school's operation."

He said the use of a special fee to supplement salaries violates the Policy and Procedure for Faculty Advancement (PAPFA) document, which outlines the procedures governing faculty advancement and salaries. The law faculty fee increase has not been approved by the faculty Review and Appeals Committee, as called for by the PAPFA document, according to Brenner.

The committee's findings and recommendations were presented to the Faculty Senate Nov. 19.

If the Senate approves the recommendations, University of Montana President Robert Pantzer will be requested by the Senate to carry out the proposals.

Alleged fund abuse study delayed

The recommendation that the University of Montana repay $268,172 of allegedly misused work-study funds will not be reviewed until "at least January," James Allen of the U.S. Office of Education in Washington D.C., said yesterday.

In October a regional audit agency for the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) recommended that UM be required to repay the allegedly misused work-study funds.

The agency forwarded its audit to the Office of Education, a division of HEW, for review.

Allen said his office has not had time to review the audit because it is short of staff. Allen is chief of the program support branch of the division of student assistance in the Office of Education.

He said that if his office decides UM should repay the work-study funds, it will ask UM for the money.

The University would then meet with the Office of Education to decide how much money will be repaid and where it will come from, he said.

Allen said he does not know what action his office will take if UM refuses to repay the funds because no institution has ever refused to pay.

The Office of Education in the past has withheld federal student financial aid from institutions delinquent in their repayment, he said. He added that when this measure has been used the result has been compliance with the demand for repayment.

Robert Pantzer, UM president, said in an interview this week that UM has hired a law firm to determine what action should be taken if the federal government demands repayment of the work-study funds.

Pantzer said the law firm has hired an accounting firm to audit the athletic department's financial aid records in order to get an "objective look" at the situation.

He said he does not know where the University will get the money to repay HEW if they are requested to do so.

Federal officials were informed of apparent discrepancies in the athletic department's use of federal funds in January, 1972, by W.J. Hanon, former UM business office controller, after an audit by Ray Meiner, former UM internal auditor.

Five UM employees were indicted as a result of a federal investigation of the issue.

Jack Swarthout, athletic director, and William Betcher, assistant football coach, were acquitted April 14 after a four-week trial.

Charges against George Mitchell, administrative vice president, Earl Martell, athletic department business manager, and John Elway, former assistant football coach, were dropped.

The Montana Legislative Audit Committee also conducted an audit of the athletic department books which resulted in a critical report of the athletic department practices.

ERA subject of discussion

Equal Rights Amendment foe Sen. Jack McDonald, D-Belt, told a crowd of more than 350 persons in the UC Ballroom last night that women have equal pay for equal work covered by law. He asked, "What other rights do you want?"

In a panel discussion, moderated by Robert Campbell, Missoula lawyer, and sponsored by the Missoula chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union, McDonald told the crowd, "Come to the Legislature with your problems. We'll be glad to help."

Other panel participants were: Sen. Fred Carl, R-Missoula, who spoke against passage of the amendment, Rep. George Turman, R-Missoula, and Rosemary Boschert, a lawyer from Billings and a spokesman for the ERA movement, both speaking in favor of the amendment.

Each panelist was given time to express his views. After their speeches they were asked questions by the audience.

Carl said he is aware of many injustices to women concerning equal rights. He said the passage of the amendment would force the change in too many laws too quickly, such as in labor, criminal and military legislation.

The "pushers" of the ERA should help get laws changed one at a time, Carl said.

Turman provided evidence of the need to pass the amendment based on a morality issue. He said the problems extend from the traditional male dominating role. Turman said he believed the amendment was backed by reasonable women seeking a reasonable action to women's problems.

Turman first expressed his thanks to Carl and said his comments were enlightened for being among those who seemed "unenlightened."

McDonald said he believes that a constitution is a philosophy of government. He said the United States Constitution is "a truly God-inspired document."

"Truly it has stood the test of time and we are a nation especially blessed. Now as we consider the merits of the Equal Rights Amendment, can you understand with me why putting this language in our United States Constitution is ridiculous," McDonald said.

"I believe a woman's place is exactly where she feels led to be. I would do all in my power as a legislator to insure this. But men are men and women are women and to say they are equal is interpreted by many people to mean they are the same. I love breakfast and I love dinner equally. But they are not the same and if someone should rule that 'from now on breakfast and dinner are the same' it could leave a very empty spot in the day. Including the Equal Rights Amendment in our United States Constitution is like trying to kill a fly in the china shop with a baseball bat," he said.

Boschert asked, why in a country with the most explicit constitution in the world, must women ask males to be equal.

Boschert provided a background of injustices against women in law, the household, jobs and in wages.

Boschert said that women are now in limbo. She said the legislature says women have the protection of the courts and the courts say women will have the ERA.

Boschert added that the best way now is to proceed and ratify the amendment. She said the amendment would not affect the affairs of husband and wife, or take away the rights of people, but instead would only affect governmental functions and make women equal to men.

CB denies money request of anti-impeachment group

A student committee against the impeachment of President Richard Nixon was denied a request of $153 by Central Board last night.

The committee requested the money to "educate students of the reasons why the President should not be impeached," a spokesman said. CB voted 14 to 1 against the request. Three delegates abstained from voting.

The committee's request was in reaction to CB's allocation of $153 to the committee to un-elect the president on Nov. 14. Both committees requested the money for advertising in the Montana Kaimin, the Missoulian and letters explaining the position of the particular committee.

Brian O'Grady, freshman in pre-business administration, said it was wrong for CB to take a stand and allocate money to support Nixon's impeachment. However, he said that if CB allocated money to represent anti-Nixon sentiment on campus it should allocate the same amount of money to express pro-Nixon sentiment.

Skip Baker, on-campus delegate, said "it's a bunch of bullshit to say that ASUM shouldn't take a stand" on an issue it believes in. Baker said he would "seriously consider" the committee's request if it came back to CB with "1,300 signatures for its cause" like the other committee did."

John Nockleby, on-campus delegate, said that University of Montana students were directly effected "by the corruption" in the Nixon Administration, therefore, CB had the right to allocate money for his impeachment. Nockleby added, "CB has the power to support any thing it wants."

In other action, CB accepted the resignation of Carrie Hahn, on-campus delegate, from the board. Hahn will not be enrolled at the University Winter Quarter.

Nixon un-elect committee not political party, Felt says

The Committee to Un-elect the President is not a political party, Tom Felt, University of Montana sophomore in journalism and member of the committee, said yesterday.

Felt was referring to a letter sent to Bob Campbell, Missoula attorney and representative of the committee, by Harold Dye, chief deputy county attorney.

The letter states that the committee is being investigated concerning allegations made by the Missoula Republican Central Committee.

The Republican committee alleges the anti-Nixon group is operating in violation of the Corrupt Practices Act because it is an unregistered political party.

Campbell agreed with Felt, saying that members of the Committee to Un-elect the President do not consider it a political party.

Dye also requested information as to the aims, aspirations and prerequisites of membership to the committee.

Felt said the chief aim of the committee is to impeach Nixon. He added that the only other goal or aspiration of the group is to obtain office space in the ASUM offices in the University Center and consolidate their group with other liberty-oriented organizations.

Felt said it would be easier for interested people to obtain information about group activities if organizations such as the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws, American Civil Liberties Union and women's rights groups were located in the same place.

Campbell said the committee may compile a list of contributors to the movement for public release.

Members of the committee will meet with Dye in the future, Campbell said, and "see what we come up with."

Felt said there are no prerequisites of any kind to join the committee.

Rummel criticizes reorganization plan

If the education school's undergraduate curriculum is eliminated through reorganization it will hurt the whole University, J. Francis Rummel, dean of the education school, said yesterday.

In the Montana Review last Friday Richard Landini, academic vice president, was reported as saying the education school's undergraduate curriculum might be dispersed among other departments, retaining only a graduate school. His revised reorganization plan is to be distributed sometime this week.

Rummel said that in most instances a student takes the teaching methods course and required courses related to his teaching field outside of the education school.

For example, an education student, whose teaching field is English, takes a teaching methods course and all English courses required for a teaching certificate within the English department.

The individual departments are not equipped to handle student teaching programs and education labs, Rummel said. He added that equipping each department to perform these functions would mean duplicating a function now performed by the education school.

He also said that some school administrators have told him that they will not accept student teachers from UM if they have to deal with a number of departments.

He said that the education school is the only program on campus that effects the entire University.

According to Rummel, out of 1,268 UM students graduating from Summer Session 1971 through Spring Quarter 1972, 489 received teaching certificates.

This represents 63 per cent of the 749 students graduating in fields of study which offer teaching certificate, he said.

Rummel said that since the education school requires only 45 credits in the school for elementary education majors and 33 credits in the school for secondary education majors, loss of the education school would decrease the enrollment of every department on campus.

Rummel said that the 489 teaching graduates took a total of 76,131 scheduled class hours (SCH) outside of the education school during the 1971-1972 school year.

With the average faculty member teaching 750 SCH a year 102 full time faculty members were needed just to teach education majors courses outside of the education school, he said.

Rummel said that his school's graduate program would not be a sound one without the undergraduate program.

According to Rummel, the idea of decentralizing the education program is contrary to the nationwide trend toward centralization.

He said students are asking for more teaching related courses, which only the education school can offer.

Define honorable, define peace

The "peace with honor" promised by Richard Nixon in his most recent campaign for the Presidency of the United States supposedly was delivered with the withdrawal of troops and prisoners of war from Vietnam.

With the exception of a few thousand missing soldiers and a bunch of CIA and other intelligence people, the United States is at peace as far as Southeast Asia goes. With the exception of a few thousand violations of the cease fire daily and the destruction of billions of gallons of valuable petroleum products in Vietnam the peace is an honorable one.

On the world scene, the United States is at peace, with the exception of Henry Kissinger's frequent trips to the Mid East as an advisor.

You ask, "What harm in an advisor to keep the peace in the Mid East?" United States involvement in the Vietnam conflict started with an advisor—nothing more.

The United States is indeed in "honorable peace" if one defines the words using Ambrose Bierce's The Devil's Dictionary.

Bierce defines "honorable" as "Afflicted with an impediment in one's reach. In legislative bodies it is customary to mention all members as honorable; as, 'the honorable gentleman is a scurvy cur.'"

"Peace" is defined as, "In international affairs, a period of cheating between two periods of fighting."

One official in the Danish government, who might be the next prime minister of Denmark, is the only world leader who knows the true meaning of peace. He has suggested replacing Denmark's military with a telephone answering service which says "We surrender" in Russian.

Community Coalition appreciates administrative efforts

On Nov. 19, 20, 21, members of Community Coalition circulated petitions to faculty and students to educate and determine support for the Black Studies program in view of the recent crisis.

Enclosed please find the following petitions and the number of signatures obtained:

- Community Coalition to President Pantzer—40 signatures.
- White students to the University administration declaring intentions to withdraw Nov. 28, 1973, if administrative support was not forthcoming—eight signatures.
- Faculty and staff to the University administration and Board of Regents—from twenty-two departments and programs—100 signatures.
- University students to the Board of Regents and University administration—1791 signatures.

The petitions were statements "urgently requesting the University administration and the Board of Regents to adequately fund and guarantee the continuation and development of a vital, growing and self-defined Black Studies program at the University of Montana before Nov. 28, 1973."

The petitions from the faculty were more and less hastily obtained and cannot be regarded as an accurate basis for the total support, or the support representative of any particular department.

In view of the events of Nov. 26 and 27, 1973, members of Community Coalition sincerely, and deeply appreciate the interest and support of the administration in definitive action financially, and the beginnings of a greater understanding of the Black Studies program.

Pietr Zwolle
Chairman, Community Coalition

Phantom bitcher strikes again

Editor: The phantom bitcher has obviously been on the prowl again in as much as someone anonymously placed a message on the blackboard in the ASUM office. This message criticized Central Board allocations for the intern program and for the assistant lobbyist. We disapprove of the message for two reasons. First, people who don't have enough confidence in the strength of their convictions to sign their names are pretty low down. Second, the message indicated either an incredible willingness to distort the facts surrounding both the intern program and our lobbying effort or an unacceptable ignorance of the facts. In any case, the phantom bitcher is not a responsible critic of Central Board.

Montana's 'dower' rights do not offer equal protection

Editor's note: As you are probably aware, this week has been declared Women's Rights Week by Gov. Tom Judge. Discussion concerning the ratification of the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the United States Constitution has raised questions on the possible effects of the ERA on Montana's current dower laws. The following article was prepared with the help of Missoula attorney Laurence Eck and was submitted by Pat Blend and Janelle Fallon, members of the Women's Rights Week Publicity Committee.

Equality under the law for both sexes would lead to a more equitable arrangement for inheriting property than the current system of dower rights for women.

Attorney Laurence Eck, who has studied carefully the complex issue, defines dower as "the interest in real estate of the husband which Montana law gives to his widow as a means of support after his death."

Dower rights originated in early England, Eck said, but now that a man's wealth is likely to consist largely of intangible property such as stocks and bonds, rather than land, dower does not provide the kind of protection it once did. Dower rights also provide no protection for a widow if her husband owned his property in joint tenancy with someone other than his wife, Eck explained.

Eck said a woman's dower right covers only one-third of the land which her husband owned during the marriage. He explained that, instead of outright ownership, she may get only one-third of the rental value of land which her husband owned when he died and willed to someone else, and one-third of the rent on land that the husband sold during the marriage without his wife's signature on the deed.

Eck said women automatically lose their dower rights in a divorce.

"If a woman joins with her husband in selling land, she automatically releases her dower rights to that property," Eck noted. He added that if a woman refuses to release her dower rights, her husband would probably not be able to sell the land.

He also said that a woman can exercise her dower rights only if she renounces her husband's will, or if her husband leaves no will.

"As a practical matter, dower rights are truly insignificant and rarely exercised by women in Montana," Eck said.

Eck also said that under present Montana law, a married woman cannot make a will that would give her husband less than one-third of her real estate and one-third of her personal property without his consent. In other words, he explained, the interest of the husband in his wife's estate is better than dower since it consists of complete ownership of one-third all her property, which he may also pass along to his heirs.

In many states, including North and South Dakota and Wyoming, Eck said, a widow is given an outright ownership of a share of her deceased husband's land instead of dower. If Montana women were given this statutory share instead of dower, they would be in a much better position than at present, Eck said. He also noted equal legal rights for both sexes would equalize the position of men and women in this regard, and would be in accord with the modern trend of legislative authority.

Behan re-selected as student lobbyist

ASUM and the Associated Students of Montana State University, Bozeman, have selected Tom Behan, legislative lobbyist for ASUM and ASMSU last year, to represent again the Montana Student Lobby at the 1974 Montana Legislature.

Behan, Montana West Advertising director, Helena, was selected for the full-time position by Garry South, ASUM president, and Rich Parks, ASMSU Research Board director.

Behan will receive $5,000 for salary and expenses. He will begin organizing the Montana Student Lobby Dec. 10 and will be employed through the legislative session and for an additional six days if the Legislature calls an extra session.

South said the lobbyist position was not advertised because it was "assumed by everyone that we were picking up Behan again."

A questionnaire distributed to Montana legislators indicated that Behan had done a "good job" last year, South said.

A UM student assistant lobbyist, who will be selected by the ASUM legislative committee this week, will help Behan.

The ASUM Legislative Committee and MSU Research Board will advise the Montana Student Lobby of student opinion and priorities.

South and Parks will be the co-directors of the student lobby and will act as a "liaison between the lobbyist and the advisory committees" at their respective schools, South said.

South said he hopes to establish an advisory board of representatives from private colleges, vo-techs and high schools which would give more diverse opinion to the student lobby. South said the board, if established, would also give the lobby more influence in the Legislature.

AP in brief

Hays Mission School on the Fort Belknap Indian Reservation was destroyed early Tuesday by fire which swept through the 79-year-old structure and an adjoining convent. Authorities said there were no students in the school when the fire started and that nuns occupying the convent escaped without injury. The school reportedly housed early day Indian records and photographs of former tribal chiefs. There was no word on whether the documents were saved.

A Washington State utility regulatory official said yesterday it's possible the federal government will in some way take extra Northwest energy supplies and reallocate them to other areas.

Truckers seeking lower fuel prices and higher speed limits snarled traffic yesterday in the Midwest and cut off the entrances to a key East Coast bridge for seven hours. Governors of two states said they would ask for help from the National Guard in the event of further highway blockades.

The House small business subcommittee has agreed to expand its probe into alleged corruption in the Small Business Administration (SBA) and will send investigators to every city where abuses have been reported. The subcommittee began looking into alleged criminal misconduct in the SBA in late September, when the regional SBA director in Philadelphia brought to Congress charges of conflict of interest and corruption in the Richmond, Va., SBA office.

An environmentalist and a southeast Montana landowner said yesterday they will go to court, if necessary, to prevent Westmoreland Resources from strip mining coal in the Sarry Creek Basin. The statements were made by Edward Dobson, the Northern Great Plains representative of the Friends of the Earth, and John Redding, who farms 4,630 acres about 30 miles east of Hardin.

South Vietnamese troops backed by bombers launched a counteroffensive yesterday to retake a district capital and ease North Vietnamese pressure on a provincial capital, field reports said.

Egypt claimed its defenses shot down an Israeli jet near the Suez Canal yesterday and a bomb that exploded on a bus near Tel Aviv contributed to mounting tension in the Middle East. The downing of a plane would be one of the most serious violations of the cease-fire on the Suez front in recent weeks and the worst since the breakdown of Egyptian-Israeli cease-fire talks a week ago. An Israeli spokesman immediately denied the report that the Israeli Phantom jet was downed near Ismailia.

Saudi Arabian oil minister Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani said yesterday his government would relax its oil embargo in phased steps with Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab lands. Until yesterday, Yamani had said any resumption of his nation's oil production was conditioned on Israeli withdrawal from all lands taken in the 1967 war as well as the October conflict.

Commons' remodeling discussed

Plans to remodel the Copper Commons are being reviewed by the Student Union Board and Food Service personnel, Carson Vehrs, Food Service manager, said Tuesday.

Vehrs said the review committee will meet in about two weeks to suggest final recommendations about Commons' expansion proposals.

Vehrs said he hopes the hamburger grill area can be remodeled to provide faster, more efficient service during rush hours.

One consideration for expanding take-out service facilities is to provide self-service, with vending equipment making available a variety of breads, cheeses and pies, Vehrs said. Vehrs said other snack items such as potato chips, eggs, pickles and doughnuts may also be provided.

Vehrs said another option being considered provides for ice cream and fudgesicles on a self-service basis.

If remodeling and expansion plans are approved, funds for doing the work will be requested in next year's budget, with construction to begin Winter Quarter, Vehrs said.

Store Board puts $1,100 in trust fund

The board of directors for the Associated Students' Store allocated $1,100 to the Associated Students' Store Special Reserve Trust Fund at last night's monthly meeting.

The board of directors (Store Board) decides each year how much money, if any, can be considered excess operating capital. The extra money is then given to the reserve fund.

The fund, which is independent of the store or the board of directors, in accordance with the by-laws of the board, is used to contribute to projects which benefit the campus community.

Leroy Berven, reserve fund chairman, said the fund has contributed to such projects as the new tennis courts, lockers for the new library and the printing of the 75th anniversary issue of the Montana Kaimin last year.

Larry Hansen, bookstore manager, told the board that the autograph party with Missoula author Dorothy Johnson held in November netted $208 for the Friends of the Library who sponsored the party.

The party was held to introduce The Bedside Book of Bastards, Johnson's latest book, which she co-authored with Robert Turner, a University of Montana history professor who died last year.

Hansen said the store is approximately $2,500 in arrears from faculty charge accounts.

No decision was made concerning methods for collection of these debts. The UM faculty is allowed to charge at the bookstore, and faculty members are considered in arrears if their account is not paid within 120 days, Hansen said.

The board allocated $394 to be used to give employees a Christmas bonus. Hansen said each of the 27 employees will be given $10 plus one dollar for each year of work at the store.

The Christmas tree is from Egypt, and its origin dates from a period long anterior to the Christian Era. The palm tree is known to put forth a branch every month and a spray of this tree, with 12 shoots on it, was used in Egypt at the time of the winter solstice, as a symbol of the year completed.

Black Studies to offer classes in black experience, puppets

The Black Studies department at the University of Montana will offer two new classes Winter Quarter, Ulysses Doss, Black Studies chairman, said in a Montana Kaimin interview yesterday.

Doss said a class about the Black experience in America will start Jan. 7 from 7 to 8:30 p.m. and will continue every Monday.

He said the class will be a give-and-take dialogue between Doss and the group on the various phases of the Black experience in America.

The second new class to be offered Winter Quarter will be a Black Studies puppet show produced every Saturday starting Jan. 12 at 11 a.m., Doss said.

He said both no-credit classes will be open to the public free of charge.

Doss said he has received many requests for more Black Studies classes.

He said the new classes will help enable persons in Missoula to more fully understand what the Black experience in American means.

Doss said the Monday Black Studies course will feature music and film strips.

Both classes will be held in the Venture Center.

UM offers summer study in Spain

University of Montana students who enroll in a seven-week study program in Pamplona, Spain for summer, 1974, will live with Spanish families, take excursions in the area and attend Spanish language and cultural civilization classes.

Raymond Corro, program director and assistant professor of Spanish, will explain the program today at 4 p.m. in LA 204.

The program will cost about $875 a person, excluding transportation to and from Spain, Corro said.

He said the program will last from June 17 to Aug. 2 and students who want to enroll must have had a year of college Spanish.

The deadline for enrollment, which is limited to 25 students, is April 15.

Students enrolled in the program will register at UM for Summer Quarter and may earn a maximum of 10 credits in Spanish and independent studies, Corro said. In Spain, Corro will teach intermediate Spanish 201 and 203 and Cultural Civilization 303.

Credits can also be earned for Advanced Conversation 408.

The summer program in Pamplona is part of the Liberal Arts Study Abroad Program sponsored by the Northwest Interinstitutional Council on Study Abroad (NICSA).

NICSA is an organization of 10 Northwest colleges and universities which offer study programs in Europe in cooperation with the American Heritage Association.

Music professor given opera post

George Lewis, a music professor at the University of Montana has been named area representative for the Northwest region of the National Council of the Metropolitan Opera.

Commission studies catalogs

Elimination of what were termed misleading catalogs and promotional materials published by each unit of the Montana University System was discussed last week at a meeting of the State Blue Ribbon Commission on Post-Secondary Education.

An article in the Nov. 29 issue of the Great Falls Tribune said the catalogs misled students of the smaller colleges in the system and community colleges by telling them their credits will transfer easily if they should attend either the University of Montana (UM) or Montana State University (MSU). State Commissioner of Higher Education Larry Pettit told the commission.

The credits may not transfer easily, Pettit said, because a course offered at one of the smaller colleges might not measure up in quality to the same course offered at UM or MSU.

Pettit singled out Montana College of Mineral Science & Technology in Butte as the "worst offender" for school publications.

Pettit also discussed the plight of Montana students who must attend out-of-state schools to get medical, dental and veterinary degrees.

The state currently receives federal money to fund a "satellite" of the University of Washington medical school at MSU in Bozeman. Students attend MSU for the first quarter of medical school and then are transferred to the main school in Seattle. Plans call for the students to be able to spend the entire year at MSU by the 1975-76 school year.

However, Pettit hinted to the commission the federal assistance may end in two years, leaving the state with an annual bill of $225,000 to support the satellite institution.

He added that legislators in other states are beginning to consider allowing fewer out-of-state students into their professional schools. As an example he cited the University of California at Davis which currently allows only one out-of-state student each year into its veterinary school.

Marijuana helps win blue ribbon

Abilene, Kan. AP
Marijuana took a first-place blue ribbon at the Central Kansas Free Fair here.

The marijuana stems were used as greenery in a predominantly red floral arrangement submitted by Mrs. Faye Harp.

"I thought it looked pretty nice because of the long, fern-like leaves," Harp said, adding that the marijuana grows wild in her backyard. "I've tried killing it out, but the more I chopped it down, the more it came up," she said.

After three days, Police Chief Fred Garten took the exhibit to his office.

The chief said he removed it because it was "beginning to wilt" and since the award had been given, he saw "no reason for leaving it for someone to take away."

The Air Force Pilot has it made. Air Force ROTC will help you make it.

Here's how.

If you qualify, the Air Force ROTC will give you free flying lessons. It'll be in a Cessna 150—you're started towards the day when you'll solo in an Air Force jet.

That's only one of the fringe benefits of the Air Force ROTC Program. Consider all this: Scholarships—6,500 of them that cover full tuition. Plus reimbursement for textbooks. Plus lab and incidental fees.

Plus $100 a month, tax-free, to use as you like.

AROTC plans veterans' party

Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps (AROTC) students from the University of Montana will present their fourth annual Christmas party for veterans today at the Ft. Harrison Veterans Administration Hospital, Helena, Larry Jinkins, AROTC cadet commander, said Tuesday.

The Hellgate High School Chevaliers, a group of 26 singers directed by J. Nail Dahlstrom, will provide the entertainment for the 7 to 9 p.m. party, Jinkins said.

Jinkins added that the high school students seem to be able to relate better with the veterans than do college students.

Many of the veterans have boring lives while in the hospital and through the Christmas party students try to "cheer them up," he said.

Jinkins said that new or used books, cash donations and hand-crafted gifts for the hospital patients are being accepted by the AROTC. Persons wishing to make gift contributions for the veterans should contact the AROTC office at 243-2681, from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. weekdays he said.

Jinkins explained that gifts and cash donations for the veterans may be left at the AROTC office in the Men's Gym or University students, if called, will pick up the gifts.

Missoula businesses and service clubs have contributed over $500 to help cover travel expenses for the Christmas party, he said.

Jinkins said that University sororities, and the Junior Optimists, a Missoula boys club, have contributed hand-crafted gifts such as paintings and knitted articles of clothing.

She worked at German embassies in Abidjan, Ivory Coast, and Conakry, Guinea, before joining the Washington, D.C. German embassy.

Career workshops planned

Two one-hour workshops have been designed by the Career Planning and Placement Service (CPPS) office to aid seniors seeking jobs after graduation.

Don Hjelmseth, CPPS director, said the objectives of the workshops are threefold:

- To inform students of the career planning and placement facilities and opportunities available at the University.
- To provide students with a realistic, informed idea of career planning and job placement.
- And to equip students with skills increasing their chances of survival in job markets.

The first workshop is designed to help students in writing resumes, letters of correspondence, filing an employment file with CPPS and utilizing career planning literature and other sources available in the Career Planning Library.

The second workshop sets up simulated interviews to make students familiar with the protocol of interviewing and with questions asked during an interview. It will also project the job market and job possibilities.

The workshops, designed primarily for students graduating this academic year, can be presented at the convenience of the students, Hjelmseth said.

"I suggest that, in order for the workshops to be most beneficial, students from a single department or discipline request the workshop," Hjelmseth said. "I also urge deans, department heads and faculty members to help arrange convenient times for the conduct of these workshops."

Hjelmseth said anyone interested in additional information about senior workshops can come to the CPPS office, Main Hall, Rm. 8, or call 243-2022.

Griz to open home season tonight PC announces movie schedule

The Grizzlies will play their first home basketball game here tonight against Augustana College at 7:30 in the Harry Adams Field House.

The Grizzlies will be trying to rebound from last weekend's disappointing road trip. They lost to San Jose State 79-71, were run over by the University of Portland 96-76 and lost a squeaker to Portland State 66-64.

Grizzly Coach Jud Heathcote said his team played well enough to win two of the first three games but was inconsistent. Heathcote said a couple of last minute bobbles and questionable calls by officials cost the Grizzlies the games.

Heathcote was especially perturbed by the officiating in the Portland State game. He said the referees failed to call goal tending against Portland State in an instance when it could have meant victory for the Grizzlies. He said that the Grizzlies shot only two free throws in the second half compared to 19 free throws shot by the Pilots.

Heathcote said he did not contemplate any lineup changes for the game tonight, but he said that if the forwards did not start rebounding, he would make some personnel changes.

Augustana has a 1-1 record this year, beating Concordia College 101-68 and losing to Kearney State 73-72.

Augustana has 10 returning lettermen this year. The team's leading scorer is their 6'-9" center Davor Rukavina, who has averaged 16 points a game.

Free tickets for the game are available to all University of Montana students. The tickets may be picked up at the ticket office this afternoon or at game time.

The UM Frosh will play the MSU Frosh in a preliminary game which will start at 5:30 p.m.

Tomorrow night the Grizzlies will play Southern Colorado here.

Heathcote said Southern Colorado will be tougher to beat than Augustana.

In their first two games the season, Southern Colorado beat Western State 66-62 and the Air Force Academy 67-60.

Cubs play 'Kittens

The University of Montana freshman basketball team opens its season at home tonight against intrastate rival Montana State's freshman crew.

The Cub-Bobkitten game is scheduled to begin at 5:30 p.m. The tussle will serve as the preliminary to the Montana-Augustana game.

The Cubs and Bobkittens also meet Saturday night, this time in Bozeman as the preliminary game to the MSU-Southern Colorado battle.

Friday night the Grizzly freshmen face tough Spokane Falls Community College in the preliminary to the UM-Southern Colorado tilt.

After the busy opening weekend the Cubs do not play until after the Christmas and New Year's holidays.

Brandenburg said he would start 6'-10" Gordon Darby at center, 6'-7" Mike Richardson and 6'-4" Mike Steinberg at forward, and 6'-0" Tom Rondeau and 6'-2" Bruce Groesbeck at guard for the first game. Brandenburg who doubles as assistant varsity coach at UM, said 5'-11" Ted Ori and 6'-2" Joe DeMarois would be first-line reserves.

Volleyball playoffs

The results of the first round of the men's intramural volleyball tournament were the Cuning Ringetts over Backlash 15-6 and 15-2, the Wood Nymphs over the Teen Angels 15-1 and 15-6, and SPE over I Don't Knows 15-3 and 15-7.

RA's got a bye for the first round.

The Mama Bears beat the Volle Dillies 15-12 and 15-14, and the Cave beat Jekyls 15-4 and 15-5 in the first round of the women's intramural tournament.

A karate double feature, Fists of Fury and Chinese Connection, both starring the late Bruce Lee, will headline movies to be shown on campus Winter Quarter.

Bob Speare, Program Council social recreation coordinator, said yesterday the karate films will be shown Feb. 24. There will be an admission charge of $1.

Speare said 19 movies in the Hollywood and free movie series have been scheduled next quarter.

He said he focused on the film classics of the 1930s and 1940s when he scheduled the free movie series.

The series begins Jan. 3 with Cocoanuts, a Marx Brothers film featuring Groucho, Chico and Harpo in a Florida real estate swindle.

The series will end with another Marx Brothers film, Horse Feathers, on March 7.

Gangster movies scheduled include Little Caesar, starring Edward G. Robinson, on Jan. 10 and James Cagney starring in Public Enemy Feb. 7.

Speare said other free films to be shown include The Desk Set, starring Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn, Top Hat, starring Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, and Arsenic and Old Lace, starring Cary Grant and Raymond Massey.

Speare said all films in the free movie series will begin at 8 p.m. in the Copper Commons.

Amiotte Collection displayed in Turner

Wall hangings and other art objects from the Amiotte Collection of Stanley Jones, La Jolla, Calif., will be displayed in the Gallery of Visual Arts in Turner Hall through Dec. 16.

The wall hangings, pipe bags, moccasins and beaded objects in the display were made by Arthur Amiotte of Manderson, S.D., and members of his family, who are Oglala Sioux from the Pine Ridge Reservation in South Dakota. Exhibits representing the works of family members for five generations are in the display.

The Amiotte Collection is being loaned to the gallery by Joseph Brown, professor of religious studies at the University of Montana.

The gallery is open to the public without charge from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and 2 to 5 p.m. weekends.

According to Speare, the Hollywood movie series next quarter will lead off with Slaughterhouse-Five on Jan. 6 and 7.

Dr. Zhivago will be shown Jan. 13 and 14; Sometimes a Great Notion will be featured Jan. 20. The Getaway will be shown Jan. 27.

Sounder, a story about a black sharecropper family in the South, will be shown Feb. 3 and 4. A double feature, Life and Times of Judge Roy Bean and Cool Hand Luke, will be shown Feb. 10.

The French Connection, to be shown March 3 and 4, will be the last movie in the Hollywood movie series Winter Quarter.

All of the Hollywood movies will be shown in the University Center Ballroom at 8 p.m.

With the exception of the Bruce Lee double feature, there will be an admission charge of 50 cents at each of the Hollywood movies.

Racquetball meet

The intramural men's racquetball tournament has reached the quarter final stage.

The single elimination tournament started Monday with 36 participants. Eight players are still contending.

The remaining players are: Wes Appell, Walt Taylor, Hal Powell, Mike Halliwell, Ed Woster, Terry Spear, Tom Ryan and Michael McGinley.

Bowlers defeated in Boise tourney

The University of Montana bowlers finished fourth in the team event in an invitational tournament at Boise last weekend.

Host Boise State, Washington State University and Eastern Oregon State University finished first, second and third in the two-day tournament. Montana State University, Brigham Young University, University of Idaho and Eastern Oregon State University team number two finished in that order.

Reggie Fredricks of WSU won the singles with 622 pins. The best Montana could do in singles was a seventh by Steve Pascal with 593.

UM bowlers attending were Craig Buckalew, Bruce McEvoy, John Ogle, Steve Pascal and Karl Rogge.

Competition strong in 'pompon contest'

The "name the pompon girls" contest has been well received on campus. Contest director Bruce Saylor has recorded more than 40 suggested names for the performing group.

The group will make its debut at tonight's halftime of the Montana-Augustana game. The name chosen as the official name of the group will be announced just prior to game time along with the person who suggested it. The person will receive an eight-gallon keg of beer, donated by Worden's Super Market and a season ticket to Grizzlies' home basketball games.

The contest ends today at 4 p.m. suggestions are to be submitted to Saylor at the Montana Kaimin office or put into the envelope posted at the Copper Commons entrance.

Lau wins title in Bozeman meet

An incomplete University of Montana wrestling team had only three wrestlers place in the Montana State Invitational Wrestling Meet in Bozeman Saturday.

The outstanding Grizzly wrestler in the meet was Rick Lau who won the 158 pound weight class.

Dave Koeppen placed fifth in the 177 pound class and Doug Gregg placed fifth in the 142 pound weight class.

Ricks College won the invitational meet.

UM Wrestling Coach Jerry Downey said he did not take his two heaviest wrestlers to the meet because he did not think they were ready.

Downey said he did not know if they would be ready for the next meet.

The next meet for the Grizzlies will be the Western Montana College Invitational at Dillon, Saturday.

The two wrestlers who did not make the trip to Bozeman are John Prigmore a 240 pound heavy weight and John Buxton who wrestles in the 190 pound class.

Downey said he is not disappointed with his team's performance. He said his team is doing quite well when it is taken into consideration that the UM no longer subsidizes the wrestling team.

Downey said anytime a group of "walk ons" can enter a meet and wrestle against teams that are giving full-ride scholarships and take some places, they are doing well.
